

The President, with Mrs. Wilson And Small Party, Attends Theater

Mr. and Mrs. Larz Anderson entertained for Japanese Mission Last Evening—Mr. Sato Will Give Dinner and Reception Tonight for Viscount Ishii—Senator Saulsbury Also Issued Invitations to Entertain the Visiting Mission.

The President and Mrs. Wilson, with a small party, occupied a box at Keith's Theater last evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Larz Anderson were hosts for Viscount Ishii, head of the Japanese mission, at their home in Massachusetts avenue last evening, first at a dinner party with thirty guests and later at a reception.

There were thirty guests present at dinner to meet the Viscount, including Mr. Almaro Sato, the Ambassador of Japan; Mr. and Mrs. Roland S. Morris, of Philadelphia, the former recently appointed American Ambassador to Japan; members of both the Japanese embassy staff and the suite of the special Japanese Ambassador, and others from resident and official society.

For a reception there was a number of additional guests, both the large drawing room suite and the garden being used for the entertainment. The garden, though small, is particularly beautiful under illumination, and the architecture of the house makes it almost part of the building. Mr. and Mrs. Anderson received the guests for the reception with their guests of honor.

Tonight Viscount Ishii will meet all the notables in Washington at the reception which Mr. Almaro Sato, the Ambassador of Japan, will give in his honor. The New Willard will be the scene for both the large dinner company, numbering about eighty, and the reception, for which several hundred invitations have been issued. The French Ambassador and Mme. Jusserand, the Italian Ambassador, the Minister of China and Mrs. Koo, and the Belgian Minister are among the diplomats to dine.

Mme. Mura, the famous Japanese prima donna, who has been heard here on several occasions, and who sang at the opening of the Sylvan Theater in mid-summer, will give a program during the evening.

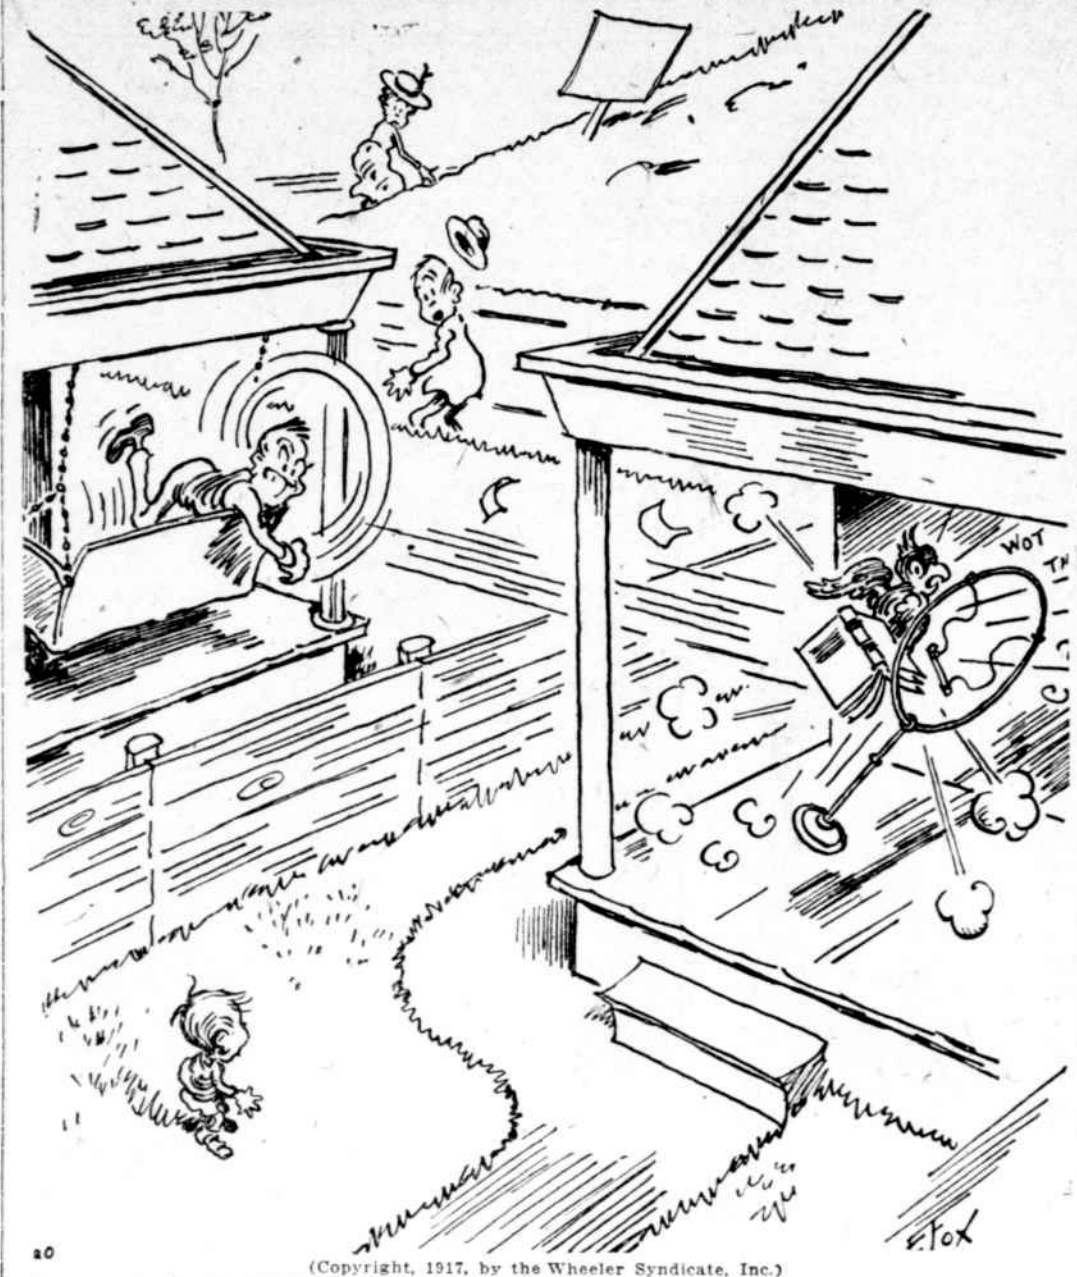

Senator Willard Saulsbury, of Delaware, will entertain Viscount Ishii and members of the mission at dinner at the Metropolitan Club tomorrow evening. There will be additional guests to make the company entertained a large one.

Senator and Mrs. Newlands will entertain guests at dinner tonight in honor of Mr. Andre Tardieu, head of the French high commission.

Lieut. and Mrs. John Howard Hoover will entertain a company at dinner tonight in compliment to Miss Marie Eugenia Smith, and Lieut. Commander Hollis Taylor Winston, whose marriage will take place tomorrow.

Mr. and Mrs. James Leon Lufford, of Virginia and Texas, have issued invitations for the marriage of their daughter, Marie Peyton, to Mr. Thomas Elvin Dillake, of Virginia, on Wednesday, September 5, at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, in the serving in the United States Ambulance Corps. The bride has been doing volunteer Red Cross work.

Judge Ormsby McGammon also of the Corps and Lieut. Haas of the same services were present at the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Ferguson announce the marriage of their daughter, Elizabeth, to Dr. Thomas V. Murto, U. S. N., at Norfolk, Va., August 25.

Mr. F. L. Lewis, chief attendance officer of District schools, who is spending several weeks with Mrs. Mary Carroll, at Ocean City, N. J., is expected to return home on Tuesday next.

Lieut. and Mrs. Thomas A. Garvin, Mr. G. Bryan Pitts, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Knight, Mr. Charles W. Richardson and Mr. William E. Fowler are among the Washington people registered at the St. Charles, Atlantic City.

Mr. Charles M. Hammett, Mr. George Winters and Mr. Louis Winters are at the Hotel Bothwell, Atlantic City. Commander and Mrs. Harris Laning will go to Annapolis Saturday to spend the week-end with Capt. and Mrs. Edward Lloyd.

Mrs. William J. Snow is making a short visit to Miss Meem, 201 F street, before leaving for Fort Sill, Okla., where she will join Brig. Gen. Snow, U. S. A., who is in command there.

Rear Admiral H. T. B. Harris, U. S. N., retired, and Mrs. Harris, after passing the summer at Narragansett Pier, have left for New York, where they will make a short stay before returning to Washington.

The Minister from Portugal, Viscount d'Almeida, has left the summer station at Bar Harbor for Poland Springs, Me., where he is making a visit.

Mrs. R. E. Miller will go to the Hotel Chamberlin, Old Point Comfort, Va., to spend the coming week-end. She will remain over Labor Day.

HOROSCOPE.

Thursday, August 30, 1917. Although this is counted an uncertain day, Venus and Jupiter are in benefic aspect during hours. Early in the morning Neptune and Saturn are adverse. Uranus, also, exercises sinister power.

The sea threatens disaster continuously in these last days of summer, but there is a prophecy that the United States will gain in a strategic mode that will make fame for the navy.

Unusual storms are prognosticated for the next month, when tidal waves will cause loss of life.

This should be a fairly fortunate day for commercial transactions. Manufacturers will be extremely lucky.

There is a sign real as discouraging to all who seek servants or employees in any domestic capacity. By winter a condition will arise that will bring about new methods of living where economy must be considered.

In this prophecy made about the household it is declared that women will adopt a new profession that will make home life possible.

This should be a happy wedding day for the stars presage harmony and long life.

It is a lucky rule for first productions at theaters or first appearances of actresses.

Theatrical managers have the forecast of rather a prosperous season in which they will make strange ventures that will astonish the world.

The Southern States have a most encouraging way and will prosper handsomely. There may be envy aroused, but nothing will interfere with great progress.

Anxiety about government revenues is foreshadowed for the early autumn. Persons whose birthdate it is will have a fortunate year if they are careful. They should beware of false friends. The young will court or marry.

Children born on this day will be ultimately successful, but they have hard experience, probably, but they are likely to be endowed with many talents that smooth the path of life for them.

Doesn't it seem strange that a girl should wish to be dead just because every one says she is pretty but that is all? I have had so many letters from girls who said they were not pretty and who would give everything just to be beautiful. But here is a girl who sent me her photograph, and who is as pretty as a picture.

"I am so tired of people telling me to be careful," she writes. "Doesn't any one give a girl with a pretty face credit for any brains at all? I have been through high school and normal college, but when I tried for a position as teacher, it was always the older plainer girls who were chosen before me. I even tried for a little country school, and the committee said it wouldn't be advisable to trust me with the school."

"Then I tried for a position as private teacher, but I am sure the women thought I had designs on all the men in the family. I dressed as simply as I could, and kept to my own room, but it was made so unpleasant for me that I was glad to leave."

"The worst of it all is, the way that other girls treat me just as if they were afraid I was going to take all their sweethearts away from them. What can I do to help it? It makes me feel as if I would like to try to look as homely as I can."

I think frankly, that this young woman is just a little bit self-conscious. If the pretty girl puts self out of her mind and really gets down to work, there is always plenty for her to do. I think kindergarten work would be splendid for this girl. She would be a delight to the little kiddies. I remember when I went to school, I always loved the pretty teachers, didn't you?

But the very last of her letter made me feel indignant. It said that if she couldn't do any better she supposed she would have to go into moving pictures, where anyone with a pretty face was sure of recognition.

If she only knew the heartaches and disappointments of hundreds of pretty girls who manage to get into the studios as extras, because of their appearance, and then fall to go ahead for lack of perception and brains. The prettiest little girl came to us at Truckee, and asked for a position. She had been born and raised up there in the mountain region, and was like some rare wildflower herself. I was delighted with her, but I couldn't advise against her leaving her home.

"Child," she said, "you haven't any education to speak of, and you'll be so homesick by the time you're away from here, that you'll wish you were dead, and scolding me for encouraging you to leave home. Why do you want to go away?"

Then the girl blushed, and drooped her head.

"Jim and me had some words, and I broke my engagement."

"Well, you just go and smile at him, and mend it all up again."

"I can't mend it. You can go into the pictures any time, but you'll only find one Jim and that's here at Truckee."

We saw them about seven that night, strolling down the road from the little town, happy as could be. So I think, if you feel worried because you are too pretty for everyday work, you just ought to forget about it, and try to see life from the plain girl's point of view of efficiency. Mother has often said that the trouble with most girls who are stage struck is they all want to be stars or sou-riettes.

Answers to Correspondents. Alvera E.—The Essayany Company is in Chicago and so is the Selig Studio. Have some good professional photographs taken of your little sister, and have her registered at the best studios. I think there is always an opportunity for a pretty and talented child.

Mary S.—Indeed I do feel that I have a strolling mother in the world. I was so interested in your letter telling me of your mother and your brother.

Anna McLa.—The little girl lives in Chicago. I will send you her address by mail.

Louis J.—You can address Mr. Fairbanks, care Artcraft Studio, Hollywood, Cal. His last picture was "Down to Earth."

Mrs. A. J. N.—I will send your name and address to the girl you speak of and hope that you will hear from her. I think it is wonderfully kind of you to offer her a home.

Florence N.—The poem was beautiful. I thought, I'm sure you could easily get it published if you wanted to. What is your sister's first name?
